Restoration of relations with the United States will open wider perspectives than relations with England, Litvinov said, declaring that the personnel of the Baldwin cabinet "evokes the supposition that British policy again is arch-imperialistic and interventionist."

Brokers Work At Night To Handle Rush Of Business

NEW YORK, November 12.—(By the United Press)—Checks in commission and brokerage houses again worked through the night to handle an avalanche of orders from all parts of the nation as the stock exchange entered the seventh day of the great post-election bull market.

Public confidence seemed unbounded and in the face of the reports of business prosperity and expansion of industry traders were prepared for an indefinite continuation of the buying wave.

The turn-over in the stock exchange yesterday was 2,238,309 shares, railway and industrial issues going into new high ground for the year. Both the stock exchange and curb market were taxed to capacity with a total of 444 stocks traded in, including 11,675,270 shares had been traded in since the election when the stock exchange closed last night. Fifty representative stocks showed a net gain of 4.5 per cent.

Among representative stocks which made outstanding gains since November 3, are American Can up 13 1/2; U. S. Steel up 3 3/8; Southern Pacific up 10 1/4; U. S. Alcohol up 10 1/2; Atchafalpa, Tropicana and Santa Fe up 3 5/8 and General Elec. up five.

It was estimated that brokers' borrowings increased about $25,000,000 in the last month and that the total now approximate $1,600,000,000, the largest so far this year.

Even under this increased demand the money market showed no signs of strain and the call money rate declined during the day from 2 1/2 to 2 per cent.

Under the pressure of heavy trading the tickers fell at times from seven to ten minutes behind actual trading and the stock exchange clearing house was once more obliged to extend the time for settlements.

Coolidge and Mellon Lack Time For Program

WASHINGTON, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The administration has no present intention of pressing for tax legislation at the coming session of Congress, it became known today after Secretary Mellon had conferred with President Coolidge. It is understood Mr. Mellon does not consider it practical to take up the problem at this session because of the lack of time and in view of other difficulties entering into the situation.

Neither has the administration given any consideration so far to the calling of a special session of the new Congress after next March 4 to consider tax legislation.

Administration officials feel it would be rather futile to renew the tax fight at the short session since the problem has just been threshed out and the resulting law is just now going into effect.

What Congress itself may attempt, without recommendation from the administration is another question. Some elements in the Senate and House want immediate action despite the fact that the Republican party leaders seem agreed with the White House as to the inadvisability of such a course. Others are pressing for a special session after March 4 and it remains to be developed whether they will muster sufficient strength to convince the president that such a session should be called. Unless Mr. Coolidge issues a special session call the new Congress will not meet until a year from the coming December. Those who are urging a special session point out that the president declared after the act of 1924 was passed that he favored another revision at the earliest opportunity and they argue that a delay until late in 1925 would not carry out that program.

Mr. Mellon conferred for more than a half hour this morning with the president. It is understood the question of taxation was discussed in some detail.

End of Rum Row Seen By Officials

WASHINGTON, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The "end of rum row" is predicted in a treasury statement published today embodying a review of coast guard operations in October. A large increase in the number of seizures, including seven foreign vessels acting as supply ships, is reported.

Progress in combating liquor smuggling is attributed in part to the increase in the coast guard's facilities provided for by the last Congress and the ratification of treaties removing certain restrictions on the seizure of rum runners. When all of the boats and men provided for become available, it is said, the service expects to be able to stop the leaks at all of the "worst localities" which are described as being too widely scattered for completely effective work at present.

In citing the seizure of the steamer Sagaland "with 38,000 cases of whiskey aboard" the report remarks that "it is surprising to note the number of liquor traffic," 10 having been observed recently in the rum fleet off the Atlantic coast. Papers confiscated aboard the steamer Sagaland, it adds, have proved of considerable value in planning coast guard operations by providing a "rather complete list of the persons actually financing and directing" the smuggling.

Child Placed in Bath Water So Hot It Scalded Her

CANTON, O., November 12.—(By the United Press)—Placed in bath water so hot that it scalded her, Mrs. J. D. Carey, 37, of Canton, Ohio, today said her 10-year-old daughter, who was scalded by the water, was placed in the bath water so hot that it scalded her. She was burned over her entire body several days ago when a woman helping her in the bath attempted to bathe her in hot water.

Coroner F. H. Shorb investigating the case, found it to be an accident, and said there was no evidence of criminal negligence.

When Is Official Not An Official?

ATLANTA, GA., November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—A political question as to when an official is not an official has been brought up by the election. In White County the ballot was printed to read "for a city court" and "against a city court." On the same ballot were two candidates for judge and solicitor of the city court. The official tabulation shows that the city court was defeated 437 to 387, but that W. H. Underwood was elected as "judge of city court" and Thomas P. Underwood was elected solicitor. And now goes into the book of freak ballot box results the case of two who were elected but cannot serve.

Seek State Police To Guard Roads

COLUMBUS, O., November 12.—(By the United Press)—Proposals which are to be presented to the state legislature when it convenes in January are beginning to pile up.

The latest bill to be prepared for introduction comes from the State Highway Department and provides for the appointment of state highway patrolmen to guard the state highways against destruction and spenders.

Under the provisions of the proposal the police would not be available for liquor raids. In fact their entire duties would be confined to the highways.

Hill Jubilant Over Decision On Cider By Judge Soper

BALTIMORE, MD., November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Decision by Judge Morris A. Soper in federal court on eleven points submitted by counsel for John Philip Hill, which said that the Congress had no right to prohibit the manufacture of fruit juices and cider for home use, was hailed by the congressman as a triumph. Hill is charged with violating the Volstead act by manufacturing wine and cider containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol and with maintaining a nuisance at his home here during the process of manufacture.

The taking of testimony ended yesterday with the government put three rebuttal witnesses on the stand. Mr. Hill is charged with violating the Volstead act by manufacturing wine and cider containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol and with maintaining a nuisance at his home here during the process of manufacture.

Representative Hill expressed delight at the opinion handed down yesterday by Judge Soper that it was the intention of Congress in passing the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of fruit juices and cider for home use, and that the prohibition against the manufacture of alcoholic content does not apply in such cases, the beverages having to be intoxicating in fact to be illegal; and that where the admission is made that beverages have been produced of a higher alcoholic content the makers may present evidence to show that they are not intoxicating in fact.

Declaring it one of the most important acts so far given in connection with the operation of the Volstead act, Mr. Hill said "there is nothing in Judge Soper's opinion that I have not stood for ever since I began my fight against the iniquitous prohibition law."

"It supports my contention that there has been discrimination by the prohibition department in favor of the farmer and against the urban citizen. Farmers have been permitted to manufacture their cider without regard for the half of one per cent provision of the Volstead act, while the dweller in the city has been rigidly restricted to the innocuous half of one per cent beer."

Judge Dismisses Two Counts In Hill Case

BALTIMORE, MD., November 12.—(By the United Press)—Judge Morris A. Soper in charging the jury in the case of Congressman John Philip Hill, today instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty on the nuisance counts of the indictment.

He told them that in other counts charging manufacture and possession of intoxicating wine and cider the one question for them to determine was whether these beverages were intoxicating "in fact."

The judge told the jury that the defendant is entitled to all "reasonable doubt" and that the burden of proof rests on the prosecution.

Immediately at the conclusion of the charge, argument was begun by the lawyers. It was understood that each will take about an hour in argument, indicating the case may go to the jury early this afternoon.

Arthur Machen, counsel for Hill, addressing the court, said:

"Your honor, I understand instructs the jury that the 'reasonable doubt' applies to the intoxicating quality of the beverages as to all other matters of the case."

The judge replied that it did, United States District Attorney Woodcock declared that "Section No. 32 of the Volstead Act, shifts the burden of proof from the government to the defendant."

"This is a matter which is brought to my attention for the first time," said Judge Soper.

The section in question was handed to the judge who examined it and said "This is an arguable point," but did not change his instructions to the jury.

The jury was told by the court that the question of whether they were in sympathy with Hill's position to the Volstead Act or not in sympathy with it, should not influence them in reaching a decision. They should decide the matter strictly on the facts as they found them. The Volstead Act is a "matter of constant discussion," but the jury had nothing to do with that, the judge said.

The question of what is and what is not intoxicating, was not to be determined either by the opinions of Doctors Howard A. Kelly and Harvey W. Wiley, nor by the testimony of one witness who said yesterday that it took 12 drinks to affect him, these two were extreme, the judge said.

Doctors Kelly and Wiley, the court testified, had said that a man was intoxicated as soon as he absorbed any quantity of alcohol, however small. Some of the witnesses had testified to drinking large quantities of alcohol without being influenced.

Judge Soper referred to the testimony given yesterday by Dr. Wiley in which the doctor said of having drunk a gallon and a half of 275 per cent beer in Berlin 22 years ago. The judge said "that was intoxicating."

Two witnesses who had been engaged in the co-mercial distribution of wine testified that a beverage is not wine until fermentation is completed. Dr. Wiley took a wine test.

The jury, the court said, had seen on the stand samples of the quantity of alcohol contained in a quart of the 205 per cent cider which Hill admitted he made. Hill's alleged wine was said to go up to 11.64 per cent alcohol.

Government chemists, said the court, had examined the beverages and given these figures as to alcoholic content. The court instructed the jury that the 11.64 per cent was the figure in relation to the wine to be considered.

Hill has maintained that it was not wine but fruit juice which he manufactured. The defendant said the court men as distinguished from the trained legal opinion of lawyers. It is the duty of the jury not of the judge, to find on the matters of fact in the case.

Motions were submitted to the court yesterday asking dismissal of the count of the indictment charging nuisance; dismissal of the charges of manufacture and possession and requesting the judge to rule on one point of the case to declare "The Volstead Act unconstitutional."

The court after it had instructed the jury today referred to the prayers, but made no detailed answer to them. Judge Soper said they had been covered in his charge to the jury.

Ah, Now Mary Garden Tells How To Reduce--But Pick Out Secluded Spot

NEW YORK, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Mary Garden has returned home weighing seventeen pounds less than on her departure for Europe six months ago. She now tips the scales at 112 pounds.

Monte Carlo was the scene of her weight reduction. She said it was due to swimming in the Mediterranean, and sun baths in her motor boat.

"My friends will be surprised when they see me in Paris with the waist of a waif," she said when she left the Olympic last night. She will leave shortly for her operatic duties in Chicago.

Explaining how she banished the seventeen pounds, Miss Garden said she went in her motor boat about two miles off shore, "got out of her bathing suit, stretched herself on the deck and let the sun do its worst."

"After sunning myself for an hour," she said, "I dived overboard, swam about for twenty minutes and then went ashore."

She added she hoped any busy-bodied shore with binoculars strained their eyes. "The singer was dressed in a green broadcloth traveling suit with brown and green hat plumes to match, fawn colored shoes and patent leather pumps. She wore a bracelet of diamonds and emeralds and a double string of pearls. She brought twenty trunks filled with Paris gowns."

Another passenger aboard the Olympic was Carlos G. Hasenbalg, wealthy Argentine, who was recently reported engaged to Leona Hughes, New York dancer. He refused to comment on the reports, but said he hoped to see Miss Hughes soon.

Fess, Stephens Pledge Support For Ohio River Improvement

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—Utilization of America's inland waterways as a great transportation system is the goal of approximately 200 delegates attending the thirteenth annual convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association which opened here yesterday. With work on the Ohio River dams in the final stage of development, the association has adopted for its slogan "Close the Gap by 1929" and plans to bend every effort to speed up the work in order that the nine foot stage, the association set out in 1902 to obtain, may become a reality four years hence.

Full cooperation of Ohio representatives in congress was assured by Senator Simon D. Fess and Rep. A. E. B. Stephens, both of whom addressed the delegates.

Fifty cities of the Ohio River and its tributaries are represented.

To Confer Degree

Chiropractic For Indigestion

QUESTION — "I have been a chronic sufferer with indigestion for more than two years. If I decide to take Chiropractic Adjustments, what guarantee have I that you will get me well?"

ANSWER—Every intelligent person demands conclusive proof before he is willing to accept a new idea. Give him indisputable evidence that you are right and he is satisfied. That's why Chiropractic is being so widely accepted. The testimonials of patients right here in your own community is rather good proof. A large number of people, many of whom you know, who have been restored to health, should be very good evidence that your case is no different from many others. We mention this as one way whereby you may satisfy yourself that Chiropractic will do exactly what we claim for it. A Spinal Analysis is necessary before we are able to say what can be done in your particular case.

Have Your Spine Analyzed

A message to the sick and suffering will appear in this space daily.

THE GUMPS—WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

To Push Completion of Dams On Ohio River Projects

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—(By the A. P.)—Coordination in the improvement of inland waterways following the completion of the Ohio River project in 1923, was urged in an address today before the annual convention of the Ohio River Improvement Association by John H. Small, Washington, D. C., president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Mr. Small pointed out the value of the canalization of inland waterways so as to make a network of the navigable rivers throughout the country. The results obtained from rivers having a stationary stage all year around, Mr. Small said, has proven a great aid to shippers and manufacturers.

The association adopted for its slogan "Close the Gap in 1929," meaning that the remaining dams under construction and yet to be built could be completed by that time if the necessary funds and material were available.

Predicts Federal Aid

Assurance that congress would willingly appropriate funds necessary for the completion of the canalization of the Ohio River between Pittsburgh and Cairo without delay when presented with a plan providing for more rapid construction work than is now being followed, was given the delegates by Congressman A. E. B. Stephens, Cincinnati.

The speaker suggested that a plan be developed for the speeding up of the construction work by letting out some of the work by contract. In this way the program might be completed in three years, Congressman Stephens said.

Points Out Advantages

A total of $86,000,000 has been invested by the government in this project thus far and it is estimated that $20,000,000 additional will be needed to complete the 64 locks and dams necessary to make the Ohio River navigable at all seasons of the year.

The advantage of economy of river transportation over rail shipping was pointed out by Arthur E. Crockett, of Pittsburgh, in another address.

Nearly 200 members of the association were present.

ILLICIT JEWEL TRADE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 11.—An illicit jewel trade, believed by federal officers to have been revealed in the slaying of Mrs. Theresa W. Mors, July 12, last, for which Kid McCoy, former prize fighter now is awaiting trial, last night again occupied the attention of authorities following the mysterious killing here of Harry Katz, diamond expert, musician, and real estate operator.

In each killing a 32 calibre pistol was used and in each instance neighbors testified that they heard the slayer running away. Mrs. Mors was shot through the head once. Katz was shot once through the neck.

A "henry set" man was seen running from the room where Mrs. Mors was shot. The same description is applied to a man who made several trips, to Katz' apartment and with whom Katz said he had had trouble.

Police officers now working on the Katz case declared him to be a "clearing house" in the underworld jewel trade and added that he had been under observation for some time. Likewise the authorities seized several hidden caches of the Mors jewels.

The dead man lived in a luxurious apartment had 22 violins and almost invariably carried diamonds of large size and value on his person. Other gems he kept, it is disclosed, in a safety box in a downtown bank.

TRADE FLOODGATES

TO BE OPENED WIDE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The floodgates of business which were drawn shut during the campaign period thru uncertainty of the election outcome, have now been re-opened and a flood of orders and general revival of business may be expected in the opinion of President Coolidge, expressed today by one of his spokesmen at the White House.

The decisive result of the election indicated the attachment of the people to the constitution and to the present methods of conducting business—private enterprise as opposed to government ownership—the President believes.

Business circles share a general feeling of security as a result of the election and the increase in business activities recently noted has its basis on this foundation, Mr. Coolidge feels.

A great many orders for merchandise have been withheld from the market pending the election and these will now be placed, contributing to better conditions, Mr. Coolidge has been informed.

The President has heard of one particular instance of a merchant holding up a $5,000,000 order for goods until he saw which way the people would vote and he will now release it. Mr. Coolidge regards this as typical of the business situation.

GUNMEN ROUTED BY POLICE WITH BOMBS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Five Detroit gunmen who defied arrest were forced to surrender today when police threw several gas bombs into their apartment. When the men told Lieutenant John Ryan they would kill him if he attempted to enter the apartment, other officers were summoned. Two gas bombs were thrown through the windows. A few moments later the men walked out and surrendered.

Among the prisoners was Paul Topps, 26, wanted for shooting a Detroit policeman in a bootlegger battle with police.

UPHOLDS RIGHT OF EVERY CHILD TO GOOD BIRTH

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—"The right of every child to be well born," was the argument for birth control advanced by two women delegates to the International Association of Women Preachers Convention here, in statements today.

Commenting on the stand for birth control taken by Lord Dawson, royal physician to King George, Mrs. Lora S. LaManc, Lake Wales, Fla., a national organizer for the W. C. T. U., declared that "the problem exists, and some things shape themselves."

"The W. C. T. U. believes that every child has the right to a good birth, to adequate rearing, to sufficient education," she said.

"That is my platform, but extremely large families, particularly when limited in income, can not always result in the fulfillment of these rights."

Mrs. Claude DeVan Watts, Austin, Texas, president of the W. C. T. U., in Texas, reiterated Mrs. LaManc's arguments.

SAME GERM BLAMED FOR BOTH PNEUMONIC AND BUBONIC PLAGUE

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12.—One germ is responsible for both the bubonic and the pneumonic plagues, according to Dr. Wu Lien Teh, director in chief of the North Manchurian plague service, who is pursuing special research work at the Johns Hopkins school of hygiene and public health here. Dr. Wu is said to be one of the foremost authorities on the pneumonic plague which recently claimed many lives in Los Angeles.

In the case of bubonic plague, says Dr. Wu, the germ attacks the lymph glands. It is not contagious, he declares, being transmitted by fleas or diseased rodents.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am an infected man and I would like some advice from you. If you know the names of any doctors of special diseases in Cincinnati I wish you would print their names so I can get in touch with them. Please give me this information as soon as possible.

J. S.
If you mean you are "infected" with some kind of a disease, I would advise you to consult a local physician as soon as possible and not wait to go to Cincinnati. After all, the doctors down here are not any better than we have right here at home. The only difference is that they will probably charge you twice as much, and that, added to your railroad fare and your hospital or hotel bill while there, will make a bill that is not to be sneezed at. Why not ask your family physician about a specialist? If you think you should see one? Not knowing what is the matter with you I can't very well recommend any special physician.

Dear Dolly—I have been talking to a nice looking boy who lives at Caledonia and he says he likes me, and has asked me to marry him. What do you think about it? I am very fond of him. I am 19 years of age. Must I say "yes" or "no"? Do you think I am too young to marry?

M. D. W.

Yes, I think you are too young to get married. You might tell the boy that you would rather not give him a definite answer until you are 21 or old enough to get a license without the consent of your parents. If he cares much about you, he will be willing to keep on talking to you for two more years.

Dear Dolly Wise—Will you kindly enlighten me which is proper when sending a wedding gift to a married couple. Should it be addressed to the Mrs. or Mr. and Mrs.

ANXIOUS READER.
A wedding gift is always sent to the bride, never to the groom. This may appear like saying tea is never taken with a fork, but it is not as a certain bright editor of a fashion journal can testify. Of course, if you insist, I suppose you can address the gift to Mr. and Mrs. So and So, and no one but yourself and the bride will know the difference.

Dear Dolly—I voted the straight Republican ticket on the last election day, all but the judicial ticket and I did not know which candidates were Democrats or which were Republicans on that ticket so I just voted for any of them and my friend said I lost my vote. What do you say about it?

A WIDOW.

You did not lose your vote if you marked your ballot correctly. Voters are not supposed to think about politics on the non-partisan ballot. They should vote for the man best suited for the office and let it go at that. However, I think you should have inquired about the various candidates, and how to mark your ballot so as not to lose it, before election day.

An Outcast—You have the wrong viewpoint, and you never will amount to anything unless you change your ideas and practice the Golden Rule. If you were brought up in a good home, you should be thankful for that. If your parents had tried to raise you, you might have fared worse than you did, and since you did not know the difference, until now, you were as happy as if you had been brought up by your own parents. If you are able to take care of yourself, now, I think you should be grateful to the woman who raised you, and show your gratitude by helping to care for her, since she has lost her husband. You are not hurting anyone but yourself by feeling the way you do, and you will never be happy, or contented, unless you forget the past and start all over again. You can use the name of the people who raised you or take the name of your father.

Ballie Ann SAYS

I've been so enthusiastic about 'The Fashion's' higher priced coats that perhaps I've neglected to tell you of the beautiful assortment of inexpensive garments that my favorite shop shows. For instance, only today there arrived a lovely group of glossy bolivia coats in black, brown and grey with beautiful full fluffy collars of moulton and mandle. They're priced at only $31.50. Then there is a lovely selection of Stewart's cut Velveteen in grey, brown and buff, with lovely collars and cuffs of natural Opossum at only $29.50. Then there are several lovely coats in the little women's section of "Beckskin" in the new cranberry shade beautifully fur-trimmed for only $20.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS.

by Olive Roberts Barton

JACK'S HOUSE COMES HOME

Sure enough! Mother Goose on her broom and Daddy Gander on his dust-pan were riding through the air as fast as magic could bring them.

"Here they come! Here they come!" cried Nick as he looked out of the window of the House-That-Jack-Built. Sure enough! Mother Goose on her broom and Daddy Gander on his dust-pan were riding through the air as fast as magic could bring them. They landed right in front of Jack's house, and the Twins and Mister Tim. The brownie man, rushed out to meet them.

"Well, here we are," croaked the white crow, hopping off the handle of Mother Goose's broom. "And now that everybody is safe and sound, I'll be flying back to my nest on the mountain. I am greatly in need of sleep. Good-bye, everybody."

And flapping his wings, he cried, "Caw! Caw!" and flew off. "And now that everybody is safe and your friends are found, I'll be going, too," said Mister Tim. "They are looking for me in Brownland. Good-bye."

And he shrank up until he disappeared altogether, before the Twins had time to thank him for helping them out of their troubles.

"Now we shall go back to Mother Goose Land," declared Daddy Gander. "So he spread his magic dust-pan on the grass and said a charm."

Instantly the House-That-Jack-Built slid over and rested on the dust-pan (which stretched itself out to the proper size) as though it had been there always.

"I'll go on my broom," said Mother Goose. "I'm not comfortable any other way."

Daddy Gander said some magic words and away went the House-That-Jack-Built.

DISHES!

1—2—3—and they are clean with Chipso

Read why:

WOULDN'T you like to cut down by a third the wearisome time you now spend at the kitchen sink?

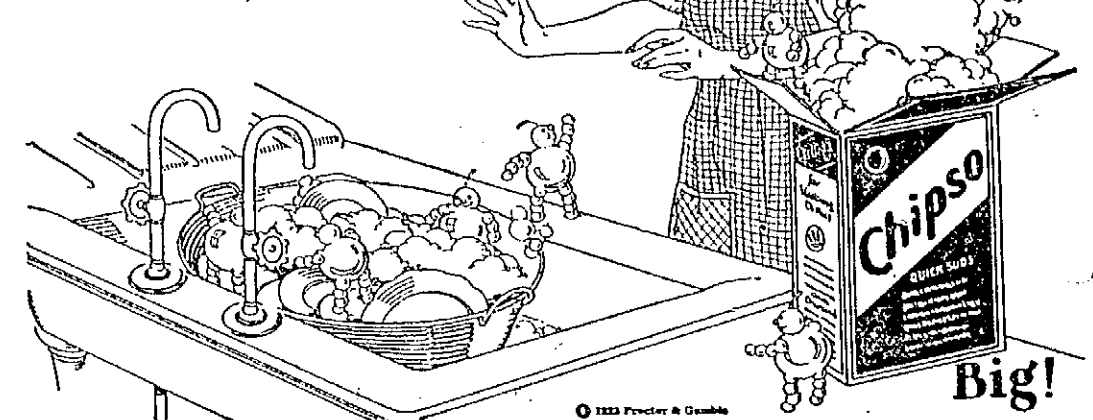

Of course you would! That is why we urge you to get one of these generous blue-and-orange boxes of Chipso from your grocer at once!

"Magic suds," women call Chipso, because it fairly bursts into suds almost the second it touches hot water. It whisks away the grease. It rinses at the first dash of fresh water. And you're through!

Strong powders that make you sneeze no longer have a right to a place in your kitchen. Chipso will do all your cleaning quicker, better and more economically.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — THE HIDDEN CITY

After Jack had completed the line in leap-frog one of the little fellows shouted, "Come on now, it's your turn." So Jack stooped over at the head of the line and the last little midget started doing the leaping. He went over the first midget in line and then over the second.

Then, as he leaped over the third, and drew up to where Jack was stooping, he shouted, "Stoop down for now 'cause I'm going to leap over." Jack crouched down a bit more, but it apparently was not low enough. When the little midget started to leap something funny happened.

He was too little to be able to hop high enough to clear Jack's back. At the same time he jumped with force enough to knock Jack over. So the little midget and the adventurer went down in a heap. All of the other midgets stood up and laughed heartily. (Continued.)

SOCIETY

Members of Mrs. C. N. Smith's Sunday School Class of Trinity church were delightfully entertained on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Henry Ruggles on Grant street. A feature of the evening was the surprise arranged for three recent brides of the class. Mrs. Lafayette Morris (Orpha. Kitchen), Mrs. Vergie R. Darragh (Mary Williams), and Mrs. E. P. Robinson (Hattie McElhenny). The three brides received telegrams telling them to go into a certain room which was attractively decorated with autumn leaves under which was hidden a handsome set of silver teaspoons for each bride, gifts from the members of the class. Needless to say the gifts were very much appreciated by the three brides. At the close of the evening a delicious refreshment course was served by Mrs. Ruggles assisted by Mrs. Charles Massie.

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church met at the church on Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 7:30 p. m. The meeting was opened by singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name". The Devotional Period followed and was led by the president, Mrs. Gerald Culbertson, using a splendid Devotional program which was used at the Convention of the Disciples of Christ which was held at Cleveland in October. After the Devotional period a very impressive pageant entitled, "The Foundation Is Laid—Let Us Build," was put on by the members of the Society. This pageant showed how the pioneer women first laid the foundation for missionary work, and how the missionary's hands are tied by not having the means to carry on the work as it should be done and at last it told how light could be carried to all the world if we all do our part.

After the pageant the Jubilee Song was sung by a chorus. This song was written in honor of the work done for orphan children by Ohio people. This being the Jubilee year of the Women's Society is 50 years old. After the song a very helpful report of the convention was given by Mrs. Mary Musser. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the committee in charge. It was announced that the executive committee would meet at the church Wednesday, Nov. 19th.

Cincinnati Symphony Here Thursday

Night; Miss Quinn Is Soloist

Portsmouth has watched with interest the musical development of Margaret E. Quinn, talented local pianist, and her home town is looking forward eagerly to hearing her play with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra at the high school tomorrow night. Miss Quinn will play the "Fantasie Ballet," by Piere, one of the French composer's best-known works in lighter vein.

The author of this Fantasie Ballet is well known as a brilliant French composer of modern conservative style. One of his most important choral works was given at the last Cincinnati May Festival and another has been selected for the May Festival of next year. For piano and orchestra, Piere composed a concerto, two concert pieces, a Scherzo waltz and the Fantasie Ballet. This fantasy is a fanciful suite of connected dances, well contrasted in tempo, rhythm and mood. The introductory theme played first by the solo instrument, then repeated by the full orchestra, with piano accompaniment, suggests the majestic and ponderous introduction of an imperial ballet. Then the dancers appear—first the graceful Spanish toe dancers, then the humorous gallop, the Vienna waltz, and finally the lively Neapolitan Tarantelle, in which all take part, dancing together in a great climax of gaiety and color.

Miss Quinn's first public recital was given in Portsmouth at the age of 9 years, and at the age of 17, the music lovers of this city will remember her when she won a silver cup for directing a prize chorus in competition with choruses from all of the other schools of Portsmouth. This was remarkable as some of the other choruses were directed by people of many years' experience here and in other cities.

The following year she won a scholarship at Oberlin University, but was unable to enjoy the benefit from this on account of the great war. She did, however, enter the Music department at Delaware College and by reason of her talent, was the only pupil who was allowed to give a concert recital that year.

Miss Quinn is a gold medal student

Eagles Observe Armistice Day; Splendid Program Is Rendered

River City Aerle of Eagles fittingly celebrated Armistice Day last night when over six hundred members and friends assembled in Eagle hall to hear the program which was featured by patriotic addresses.

Following the opening ceremonies which were conducted by Dr. Joseph Gill, Judge James S. Thomas in a stirring address recalled the drab days of the signing of the armistice and gave a glowing account of the conditions which immediately followed. In concluding his talk Judge Thomas heartily endorsed the American Legion drive for a new home.

Dr. Gill also made an interesting talk on the meaning of Armistice Day, narrating in detail the supposition as to what conditions might have been at the present time had not such a day existed when it did. He paid a glowing tribute to the boys who sacrificed their lives in the cause of American democracy.

J. Alden Stoker and Ollie Peed, representing the American Legion, outlined the plans of the legion in their campaign for a new home, giving briefly a history of James A. Dickey Post, their activities and their progress since the post was founded.

Other events of the evening were: Recitation, Dorothy Kline; Classic dances, Mary McGuire; Selections, Portsmouth's Gospel Quartet.

Black face dialogue, Oscar Franch and William Mays.

The program was concluded with the singing of many patriotic songs.

Pepgen Fortifies Against Colds and Flu, Says Streich

Pepgen, the famous herbal remedy, builds up the stomach and kidneys, and fortifies the system against colds and flu so common at this season of the year, says Phil M. Streich, head of Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy, the Pepgen agency, in Portsmouth.

Poor digestion, attacks of gas and bloating, pains in the back, too frequent kidney activity, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizzy spells, coated tongue and unsound sleep are quickly banished by this wonderful remedy. A full treatment of Pepgen will even relieve catarrh of the stomach.

Fourth Street Woman

Gets Quick Relief

Mrs. S. DeLong, of 620 Fourth street, a well-known resident of Portsmouth, said:

"For over a year I was unable to eat a good hearty meal. My stomach was so weak and everything I put in it would upset me. After my meals I would get all bloated. The gas would press up around my heart and make it beat so fast I thought it was going to jump out of me. I could not sleep at night and in the morning got up feeling like I had not had a bit of sleep.

"Pepgen was recommended by so many of my neighbors that I finally consented to give it a trial. I only wish I had started taking Pepgen sooner. For before the first bottle was gone I felt better. Now I am in fine health again. I have finished my fourth bottle of Pepgen and am going to take at least one more. If anyone is suffering like I was I want them to lose no time in starting the Pepgen treatment."

Pepgen may be obtained in Portsmouth only at Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy; Kelso Pharmacy, New Boston.—Advertisement.

Tore Out Part of Burglars Coat—Then Found The Burglar

CLEVELAND, O., November 12.—(By the Associated Press).—Sixteen-year-old Bertha Coffin, was awakened early today by the conviction that some one was in her room.
An instant later the groping hand of a burglar touched her face. She screamed and the man fled, pursued through the hall by Bertha's brother Charles, aroused by her cries.
Charles overtook the house-breaker just as he was climbing through a rear window, and grasped his coat. There was a rip as the fabric parted—and the brother retained a section of the coat as the burglar fled.

Half an hour later a man was arrested into whose coat the piece of cloth fitted perfectly according to Sergeant Andrew McCrone, the arresting officer. He gave his name as John Buick, 36. He was charged with burglary.

Teaspoonful Of Powder from Italy Placed In Shoes Relieves Man Of Rheumatic Pain Almost At Once

When he went into the store to get this marvelous powder, he was a cripple. The cause of the terrible, torturing effect of rheumatism he was crawling about on his hands.

Later the same man, Mr. E. B. (name on request, of New York City), wrote the following letter: "It gives me pleasure to inform you that one box of your powder completely cured me in three days of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for some time."

The discoverer of this powder is Alessandro Volta, the well-known Italian physicist, who discovered the electric volt. He discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients which he compounded into this powder. This powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to penetrate immediately through the myriad pores in the soles of the feet.

It has been successful in the treatment of thousands of cases of rheumatism, many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have no hesitations in giving the following guarantee: that the entire cost of the first box will be refunded if you are not wonderfully relieved.

If you suffer from Rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this remarkable and revolutionary scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost you one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta with an absolute guarantee of quick relief, from each of the following agents: The Drug Store, Wurster Bros. and Fisher & Streich.—Advertisement.

WAVERLY

In Justice Court

Squire T. A. Brown has been handling some cases of infraction to the game laws of Ohio. Game Protector William Downing brought in James Lock, Earl Lock, Ray McNelly and Joseph McNelly of near Pike Post Office and charged the with unlawfully possessing the pelts of fur bearing animals, to wit, skunks, opossums and muskrats. A plea of guilty was made in each case and a fine of $25 and costs handed to each of the four.

Walter Massie of near Waverly was arrested by Game Protector Downing, charged with unlawfully possessing the pelt of an opossum. His fine was placed at $25.

Deer Seen Near Waverly

Sportsmen about Waverly are digging through the game laws these days in an effort to learn if the open season for deer is on in Ohio. While the statement was at first doubted, it has actually been established that there are some deer in the vicinity of Waverly. The first report came in Saturday night and was to the effect that a deer had been seen that day along Noname Creek, which is about eight miles west of Waverly. At first it was seen on the farm of M. A. Brown, where it galloped on past a herd of cattle. Later in the day a deer was seen by two men going through a thicket in the vicinity of the Kritzinger place. It was probably the same one. Now on Tuesday morning another deer came right up to the edge of town, down by the D. T. & I. water tank. Several people saw this one. It is said to have been heading west, jumping fences as it went. No doubt it struck the hills back of the Lewis Younger home and continued on in the search of its natural habitat. Not much of a description was gathered of the animal, but it is said to have had horns about eight inches long. So it would seem from reports that there are at least two deer in the country between Waverly and Idaho. It is likely that they are from the Ohio Game Preserve in Scioto County, in some manner getting out of this 1900 acre reservation which is probably 25 miles south of here. One theory advanced about the deer seen at the edge of town is that it came down off the high ground in search of water. It had probably watered in the creek near the tank and was dashing for the hills again when seen.

The Affair at Flower Acres

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Douglas Raynor is found shot through the heart in the early evening on the floor of the sun room of Flower Acres, his Long Island home. Standing over the dead man, pistol in hand, is the detective, Mr. Finley, former sweetheart of Raynor's wife, Nancy. Eva Turner, Raynor's nurse, stands by the light switch. Then Nancy; her brother, Orville Kent; Dora Goddard, friend of Finley; Miss Mattie, Raynor's sister; and others, enter the room. Detective Robbins is official investigator. J. L. Raynor, son of Douglas Raynor, by first marriage, comes to claim his father's estate. Nurse Turner, arrested in New York, confesses that she attempted to poison Douglas Raynor for revenge. But the shooting remains a mystery, and Pennington Wise, a celebrated detective, is called to take charge of the case. With him is his girl assistant, Zizi.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Eva Turner looked dumfounded. "You see," Wise went on, "Miss Turner noted the frightened face of Mrs. Raynor, although she swears that Mrs. Raynor was going out of the door—fleeing—I believe she said. A person doesn't flee backward. Now, Mr. Finley, for your account of this moment. You entered at the east door—after you heard the shot?"

"Yes," said Finley, shortly. He was not gruff or annoyed, but he felt as if he were to be tripped up unless very careful, even though telling a straight story.

"You were inside the sun parlor before the light flashed up?"

"Yes."

"You had involuntarily picked up the revolver before the light appeared?"

"Yes."

"How could you see the weapon?"

"It was dusk—not entirely dark, and the metal gleamed clearly."

"Yes, it would. You could see Mr. Raynor?"

"As a huddled heap on the floor. Seeing the pistol, I knew what must have happened, and I picked it up—"

She spoke like one hypnotized. "I saw—I won't tell you what I saw!"

"Yes, I know; and then the light came and—here is the point, you glanced at once toward Mrs. Raynor?"

"No, no, I don't know," Finley spoke slowly. "I should say I looked first at Mr. Raynor—naturally he caught my attention."

"Of course—of course," Wise assented, "and then?"

"And then—well, I don't know! I suppose I was glancing round—"

"Try to think—your eyes glanced round and you saw Mrs. Raynor?"

"Yes."

"Going out or coming in at the west door?"

Finley flinched. It was one thing to tell a girl tale to Dobbin and quite another to meet these clear blue eyes with an indefinite statement.

"I don't know," he said, at last, desperately. "I should say she was just standing there—neither going out nor coming in."

"Certainly not 'fleeing,' then," and Wise nodded. "You saw her face, Mr. Finley?"

Again Finley paused.

"Mr. Wise," he said, "I cannot say. I was so startled by the occasion, and also so blinded by the sudden light, that I cannot say whether I could see Mrs. Raynor's face or not."

"That will do, Mr. Finley," Wise looked at him contemptuously. "You are uncertain because you want to be. You are uncertain of what to say—rather than as to what you saw. You are trying to think what will be best for Mrs. Raynor's interests."

"Are you a clairvoyant, Mr. Wise?" Finley asked.

"No, it is not necessary to be that to read your attitude."

"My attitude is more sincere than you think," Finley spoke angrily now. "I have no reason to speak other than the truth. But it is not surprising that I cannot remember clearly the details of the scene."

"That is perfectly true. Yet, the details you do remember are somewhat contradictory. The light flashed on you, glanced first and naturally at the shock of sight of Mr. Raynor's body on the floor. With the light on you could see this plainly—could even see that he was evidently dead, or at least, seriously injured. Is this not so?"

"Yes."

"And you looked at the revolver in your hand?"

"I dare say—I suppose so—yes, I am sure I did."

"Then your glance turned toward the door where Mrs. Raynor stood?"

"Yes."

"Yet, after the notice you took of Mr. Raynor, after the look you gave the weapon you held in your hand, after these appraising glances—you state that your eyes were so blinded by the sudden light you could not see Mrs. Raynor clearly."

Nancy looked at him, her eyes wide with horror, yet full of uncertainty. "You saw—" the inexorable blue eyes looked steadily at her.

"I saw—" she spoke like one hypnotized, then she seemed fairly to wrench her own gaze away from the detective's as she cried out, "I won't tell you what I saw!"

"Let her alone," said a soft little voice, and the girl, Zizi, glided to Nan's side, sank in a low seat beside her, and took her hand.

"As to incidental matters," the detective said, speaking on as if without interruption, "how was the revolver?"

"It belonged to my brother," Miss Mattie said, eagerly, glad to take a part in this enthralling conversation. Wise looked at her with interest.

"Where did he keep it?"

"Right in the table drawer in the sun parlor."

"Who knew the revolver was in that drawer?"

"Everybody in the house," Miss Raynor replied.

"Fingerprints?"

"None were found on it except mine," Miss Mattie said, eagerly, glad to take a part in this enthralling conversation. Wise looked at her with interest.

"I've been told you wiped it with your handkerchief, Mr. Finley, while you were dazed by the shock of the tragedy."

"Yes, I did it unthinkingly—"

"You did not do it unthinkingly," the detective said. "You did it purposely—to remove fingerprints—either your own or another's! Will you say which?"

"If I say which, I shall certainly say my own—for I have no reason to suspect any one else."

"Did you shoot Mr. Raynor?"

"I am not obliged to answer that question, as you well know, Mr. Wise."

"And you prefer not to do so?"

"Now, as to the mark of the overshoe on the floor," the detective seemed to jump from one subject to another easily. "Who saw it?"

"I did," Miss Raynor volunteered. "The other detective showed it to me. He said it was a clue."

"Is it?" Wise said gravely. "Was it a whole print of the sole?"

"Oh, no; just a partial print—of one side of the mule."

"Which side?"

"Let me see, now," Miss Mattie was elated and a little flustered. "Why, it was the right side of the right foot—yes, that was it. I looked at it most carefully. It was positively the print of a new overshoe; it was on the floor between the two rugs—and why, I could draw you a picture of it! It was the clear, full print of the right side of the right foot."

"Are the rights and lefts of overshoes so clearly defined?" asked Goddard.

THOUSANDS WITNESSED LEGION PARADE LAST NIGHT; NEW HOME DRIVE STARTS AUSPICIOUSLY

First Day's Reports Are Very Encouraging; Many Teams on the "Firing Line"

Paying homage to the 70,000 men who fell upon the field of honor and to those men who did not die or suffer in vain, and celebrating the great strides that have been made towards universal peace since that memorable day of November 11, 1918, members of the American Legion with other patriotic organizations turned out last night in a parade to appropriately celebrate the signing of the armistice which hushed the din of battle six years ago yesterday.

The celebration last night served a two-fold purpose, for it brought to a successful close the first day's drive by members of James Dickey Post in their campaign for $30,000 for a new and permanent Legion home. The solicitation started early Tuesday and by the time the captains and teamworkers stopped last night splendid progress had been made towards their objective.

While no definite figures were obtainable from Legion headquarters, where teams are to turn in their reports, directors of the campaign expressed the assurance that the start made on the opening day was beyond all expectations.

"We are going over the top," a phrase common to the doughboys of the front line "over there" six years ago, are making that phrase the slogan of this financial campaign, and with that thought ever before them the workers are certain to push forward to the set objective.

Directors of the campaign announced that hopes of securing the wanted $30,000 and a new Legion home loomed big last night when a number of pledge cards were checked over and several good sized pledges were found. One was for $500 and there were many others for $50 and smaller amounts. The Legion boys themselves made a dandy start by pledging $3,000, among the members alone.

Team captains point out to their men that everyone in the city is a "live prospect." No amount is too small to be gratefully appreciated by the "boys."

TO ESCORT WOODFILL
Battery B and members of the American Legion will assemble at the Norfolk and Western station at 7:15 to night, to form in line and escort Sgt. Woodfill from the train to Bigelow church. All men are urged to report promptly.

The parade started from Market street about 7:30 o'clock headed by Captain Theron Mathews and a good sized contingent of Battery B 134th Field Artillery and in full uniform.

Turning out with the same spirit as that evidenced in former days, about 800 of Portsmouth's Legionnaires last night took part in the parade which was held in celebration of the sixth anniversary of the signing of the armistice which virtually closed the World war and which once more brought peace and prosperity to the world.

The band that furnished the marching strains was the New Boston brass band and the members gave their services free for the celebration. James Dickey Post members fully appreciate the assistance given by the band.

The Battery B boys perched on the caissons following the four 3-inch guns brought back to mind the strains of the familiar artillery song, "Over Hill, Over Dale, and the Caissens Go Rolling Along."

Following the contingent from Battery B came the few remaining survivors of the days of "Sixty-one to sixty-five," and although feeble with the increasing years, they came forth and do their bit to make the parade a success.

Next in the line of procession came many automobiles conveying members of the Red Cross, Cauteen workers and members of the Legion Auxiliary, all manifesting that old spirit of enthusiasm which was so beneficial to the boys at the front during the World war.

Proceeding were the Boy Scouts, great numbers of them marching along as veterans, and carrying banners, portraying in bold letters the announcement of the drive being carried on by members of the American Legion for their new home.

And finally the members of the American Legion, more than one hundred strong, both soldiers and sailors, not marching in rowdyish fashion but stepping along as if sent out on an important mission under command. And they were embarking on an important mission for during the day that body of young men launched a drive for a new home and their part in the parade was played nobly as a fitting inauguration of that worthy enterprise.

Truly the celebration of Armistice Day lacked nothing in appreciation from the citizens of the city, the streets which the line of march followed being lined with admirers and enthusiastic devotees of a true and patriotic cause.

The route taken by the parade follows: East on Third to Chillicothe, north on Chillicothe to Ninth, east on Ninth to Officers' south on Officers' to Gallia and west on Gallia to Chillicothe street. Disbandment took place at the armory.

Tax

back to the tax payers. Unless the administration forestalls expenditure by announcing an intention to make a cut in taxes, Congress will find dozens of ways to spend the surplus.

Demand for Tax Cut

The simplest plan of tax revision brought forward thus far is the horticultural cut, giving everybody the benefit of the reduction by the passage of a joint resolution affecting incomes earned during the year 1924 and payable in March 1925 and thereafter. The administration is already beginning to feel the pressure of public opinion for a tax cut and as Congress gets into the thick of appropriation bills after the first of the year the demand will grow even stronger.

Just now there is talk of repealing the publicly provisions of the present law. This, of course, would be repealed if the administration had its way but the uncertain quantity is how the Democrats would vote. Should they persist in their coalition with the insurgent Republicans no hope of repeal could be entertained.

There are reasons to believe that even the Democrats would like to get rid of the troublesome publicity question. They did not relish it when the tax bill was passed last session. They had to stand by it in order to see the Garner-Mellon rates retained in the bill. As a separate measure apart from tax rates the Democrats are not so likely to stand for the publicity provisions. For one thing, the politicians have yet to discover any concrete advantages from that part of the law and the complaints which have been pouring in rather indicate serious disadvantages and even injustice. So far as getting at the returns of big corporations or individuals, Congressional committees would probably be able to get all the information necessary. But the indiscriminate use of data which the government promised to keep confidential when the income tax law was first passed is not at all essential to the correction of abuses in avoiding or evading taxation.

Publication of Returns Opposed.
Tax payers say that the simple publication of the returns lead to all sorts of wrong inferences. More than one individual has had an inaccurate return published. He can find little redress in asking a correction. Some tax payers checked off losses and appear as paying small amounts. They resent the inference that they have been avoiding taxation.

Should the administration present a repeal measure, it can rely on a majority support in the House. The administration puts its whole heart in the request. Some expression from Secretary Mellon, the Chairman of the Ways and Means committee may be expected at the beginning of the next session of Congress if not sooner.

War Hero Will Speak in Bigelow Church Tonight; Legionnaires to Form Escort

AT REST!—Sgt. Samuel Woodfill, who won the medal of honor and national fame by his heroism in the Argonne, now has beaten his bayonet into a pruning hook for the roses in his yard. After twenty-two years of active service, Sergeant Woodfill recently was placed on the retired list, formal ceremonies at Fort Benjamin Harrison (Indiana) marking the event and the whole country applauding in the spirit of friendship for a veteran who served his country well. The former sergeant—a captain during the World war—and Mrs. Woodfill are now living in the Kentucky hills near Fort Thomas, and Mr. Woodfill finds time to run into Cincinnati to attend the meetings of his own peacetime outfit, the Robert E. Bentley Post of the Legion. Sgt. Samuel Woodfill will be the guest of Portsmouth tonight, and will speak at a public meeting to be held in the Bigelow M. E. church at eight o'clock.

Sergeant Woodfill has been termed the "greatest hero of the World war," and has been decorated by several governments for bravery in action in the Argonne.

The war hero will arrive in Portsmouth this evening at 7:30 over the N. & W., and James Dickey Post, American Legion, under whose auspices he comes to the Peerless City, has arranged for a great welcome at the depot.

Sergeant Woodfill will then be escorted by the welcoming legionnaires in parade formation, to Bigelow church, for his address at eight o'clock. The line of march will begin at the station, move out to Waller to Gallia, thence to Chillicothe, to Fifth, down Fifth to the church.

Henry F. Bertrum will act as chairman of the meeting, and introduce the speaker.

No seats will be reserved, and the watchword is "come early if you want a seat, for there no doubt will be a great crowd on hand for the meeting, and to greet the great soldier. Prizes for the two winners of the legion essay contest, Richard Dadosky and Helen Cuppett, will be presented at the meeting tonight.

Margaret slapped Mrs. Carrozzo. Whereupon Carrozzo lambasted Margaret. This was repeated by an O'Banion gangster and a fight followed.

Carrozzo and O'Banion broke off friendly relations. Conflict was frequent and a short time ago an attempt was made on Carrozzo's life.

Police believe that Margaret, who has disappeared, and Carrozzo can identify the three men who yesterday entered O'Banion's florist shop and shot him to death. O'Banion was known as a deranged hoodlum, ill-jockey and general all-around criminal in the city. The flower shop was maintained as a blind for his criminal operations, police said.

Ask Governor To Halt Floggings

HOUSTON, TEXAS, November 12.—(By the United Press)—Governor Pat M. Neff, was appealed to today in an effort to prevent the authorized flogging of four prisoners at the Brazos-Baskley prison farm. The prisoners are charged with "mutiny."

Petitions protesting against the proposed whippings were circulated throughout the state and with thousands of signatures were sent to Governor Neff.

Captain Buck Ross, manager of a prison farm, was authorized to flog the men after they charged they refused to work in the prison cotton fields.

A letter sent out by the prisoners denied they refused to work and stated they quit work only long enough to change from wet, dirty uniforms to dry clothes.

George Dixon, Houston attorney, is leading the fight to halt the floggings.

Another Chapter in Lease Row

GREENUP, Nov. 12.—Another chapter is about to be written in the long argument between Mrs. Lydie Galan and John McNeal, of Edinburg, Ky., over the lease of a tract of ground by the former to the latter. The land was leased by verbal contract, some time ago, the lease to run for nine years.

Recently, Mrs. Galan sued McNeal for back rent and to get possession of the property. McNeal won the case, and the plaintiff took an appeal to a higher court.

In retaliation, McNeal had Mrs. Galan arrested on a charge of breaking into the store. The case was dismissed.

Now McNeal charges Mrs. Galan with attempting to forcibly retain the property, and the case has been set for hearing on Nov. 24th. Attorney William T. Cole will represent Mrs. Galan, and Attorney A. S. Cooper will appear for McNeal.

The case has attracted county-wide attention, and the court room is expected to be packed with friends and neighbors of both parties, when the case comes to trial.

If Back Hurts Begin on Salts

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink salt water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

WHAT TO DO WITH ZR-3

PUZZLES NAVAL OFFICIALS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—What to do with the dirigible ZR-3 was a question which today furnished the brains of grizzled admirals and rosy ensigns throughout the navy department.

Occupying as she does a dual identity of strictly commercial ship, under a strictly military jurisdiction, the great air cruiser has proved a perplexing problem to those in charge.

Suggestions for her future activities have ranged from a north Polar expedition to operation as a mail ship from Los Angeles to Honolulu, but Secretary Willbur said today no decision had been made or might be expected for several weeks.

VAUGHN, HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, SUGGUMBS TO INJURIES

Identity of Driver Is Not Known; Victim Was Hit While Walking Near Herms Place

Another life has been sacrificed on the altar of reckless driving. Injuries suffered last Saturday evening by John M. Vaughn near the Herms place on the Seoto trail proved fatal last night at 11:30. He suffered three broken ribs, one of them puncturing his right lung. The immediate cause of death was a hemorrhage of the lung. His death marked the second due to injuries suffered in an automobile accident in this vicinity in past 48 hours.

The driver of the machine failed to stop. According to Vaughn he was walking north on the trail near the Herms place when a machine going in the same direction struck him. He was not thought to be seriously injured until he began bleeding at the lungs late yesterday afternoon. Then it was realized that his condition was serious and relatives were called to his bedside.

Mr. Vaughn said it was so dark he could not tell whether it was a small or large machine, which struck him. Coroner Virgil Fowler said today that he had not been notified of the accident. The police stated that no report was made at the mayor's office and the sheriff's office had not learned of the accident until Mr. Vaughn passed away. Relatives said today that they did not believe his condition was serious and no official report of the accident was made.

After being knocked down on the trail Mr. Vaughn was so badly hurt that he could not walk and was later found by a man, who said his name was Jenkins and said he resided in Portsmouth. He notified Vaughn's relatives and the victim was later conveyed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Vaughn. They conduct a grocery store on the trail near the Herms place and Vaughn had been working for his parents.

When apprised of the fatality today officials said a rigid investigation would be made to learn the identity of the driver.

In addition to his parents Vaughn leaves two sisters in Portsmouth: Mrs. Essie Garrett of 2017 Robinson avenue and Mrs. Ollie Lawman of the Seoto trail. He formerly resided in Ironton before coming to Portsmouth seven years ago.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home at 1-0-30 Thursday morning by Rev. Sowards of New Boston. The body will be shipped to Ironton for burial.

Prison Chaplain Talks to Kiwanians

The members of the Kiwanis club had the pleasure of hearing Chaplain G. O. Reed of the Ohio State Penitentiary at their noon luncheon held at the Mary Louise, Wednesday. The address was well delivered and made a splendid impression upon the members, who not only gave the chaplain their undivided attention, but vociferous applause at the close.

Chaplain Reed pleaded for that kind of environment that permitted the boys and girls to grow up into useful manhood and womanhood, but where this has been lacking at least to send out of the penitentiary men and women who have been equipped for the battle of life. He pleaded for a system that would educate the inmates, for the abandonment of the idle house and for a system that would see that every inmate was forced to work while in detention.

He is a most interesting speaker, a man with a real message and one who knows how to put it across. He was given to understand the Kiwanis club would stand by him in his efforts to inaugurate reforms that had for their object the bettering of those unfortunate who were forced to spend a part of their lives in penal institutions.

Church, which he had attended while a student at Harvard, where his marriage was solemnized and where funeral services for his wife were held some years ago. In a voice that trembled with the intensity of his sorrow, Bishop William Lawrence of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, classmate and life long friend of Senator Lodge, read the prayers.

Except for the presence of representatives of nation, state, the judiciary and other branches of public life, the funeral observances were kept as private as was possible in the case of a distinguished public man. Admission to the church was by ticket and there were many empty pews, while thousands stood in the street outside.

According to the wish expressed by Senator Lodge, his body was placed in the family vault on the side of the aisle overlooking Mr. Ashburn Lake in the cemetery of that name. Only the family accompanied the body to the cemetery with the honorary pall bearers and Bishop Lawrence, who read the brief commitment service of the Episcopal Church.

Fewer Rural Churches, Shorter Sermons, Greater Cooperation

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12.—Fewer rural churches, shorter sermons and greater cooperation between various denominations is the aim of the American Council on Life Association which closed its seventh annual conference here last night.

After five days of discussion, committees reported that denominational strife was seriously hampering rural advancement. Cooperation was prescribed as the remedy.

Thirty pastors agreed to shorten their sermons to thirty minutes and report results to national headquarters. Delegates also agreed to work for the advancement of the community generally rather than for respective denominations.

Alchemy May Be Vindicated By Scientists

NEW YORK, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Alchemy, discredited "science" of medieval times, may be vindicated by experiments of American scientists under the direction of the Scientific American, whose editor, B. E. Free, is confident of success of experiments which have been started to determine the practicability of transmuting quick silver into gold—a feat that is said to have been accomplished recently at great expense by a German scientist, Professor Albrecht, of Charlottenburg Technical College, Berlin. By Professor Albrecht's method it is estimated a pound of gold worth about $230, would cost more than $2,000,000 to produce. Many scientists are said to believe that this cost can be reduced materially.

The "modern alchemy" is based on modern science, the experimenters say. Gold has a planetary system of 79 electrons, while quick silver has 80. By permanently "knocking off" the superfluous electron with electric current, it is believed pure gold will result.

In the experiments now going forward at New York University under the supervision of Professor H. J. Sheldon, of the department of physics, an effort will be made to discover the conditions that control the transmutation of mercury to gold and to estimate the cost of production.

H. M. Gore Of West Virginia May Secure Wallace's Post

WASHINGTON, November 12.—(By the United Press)—President Coolidge has under consideration a proposal to appoint Howard M. Gore of West Virginia, secretary of agriculture to serve until March 4, 1925. It was said in authoritative administration circles today.

Gore is now assistant secretary, and has been acting since the death of the late Secretary Wallace.

Appointment of Gore would leave the president free to make a permanent selection after his inauguration, it was pointed out.

Gore was elected governor of West Virginia at the recent general election and will take that office after March 4.

STRONG ASHLAND TEAM PLAYS P. H. S. ELEVEN HERE ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Portsmouth high school's weekly football battle will be staged Friday afternoon starting at two o'clock on the Sixteenth street lot with Ashland high as the opposition. The game is being played on Friday to allow several players and a number of fans to attend the Michigan-State game in Columbus on Saturday.

P. H. S. will meet in the Ashland eleven, one of its toughest foes of the season. The locals have won over Ashland during the last three years but the final count has always been close. In 1921 the Red and Blue won 7 to 0 in 1922, 13 to 7 and last year 7 to 0. The winning score coming in the last few seconds when Flowers caught a pass and raced over the goal.

Ashland has an experienced backfield this season and one that will bear close watching all the way through. Phipps, a 145 pounder is again at full-back with Franz, 160 pounds, his running mate at right half-back. Both played in the backfield last year and were hard to stop. With these two will be Bill Moore, who played in the P. H. S. backfield last season. Moore tips the beam at 135 pounds but is as slippery as he is small and will have to be closely guarded every second of the battle. Rigby is back at quarter this season, rounding out a backfield that P. H. S. will have to stop if they are to annex another win.

On the line, Ellis, at left end, weighs 175 pounds and Tierney, right tackle, scales 170 pounds. The remainder of the line averages about 145 pounds.

Ashland so far this year has won four games and dropped two. They lost their first two battles, Logan winning 20 to 0 and Ceredo-Kenova, 12 to 0. After that they won from Chateausburg 40 to 0, Huntington, 6 to 0, Paintsville, 33 to 12 and Millersburg Military Academy, 19 to 6.

The P. H. S. squad came out of the hard-fought Weston battle in fairly good shape and all the regulars will be ready to start Friday when the whistle sounds opening the annual battle between P. H. S. and the Kentuckians. Jimmy Sprague, who has always had trouble with his ankle but the leg twisted again last Saturday but the ankle is responding to treatment and he will be able to get into the fray Friday.

MINCE PIE

A humorous weekly querulously inquires who started the superstition that a hot mince pie may be eaten rapidly at the end of a heavy meal by a middle-aged dyspeptic without harm, providing it was baked by his mother.

This item in the American credo was written with the building of the first mince pie because the heart has always been more or less concerned with the business of proper digestion. That is, a man who feels an attachment for food is apt to encounter a reciprocal affection in his meals.

To the ordinary standard commercial mince pie no one writes sentimental verse and for it no one is willing to go to war. The pie must be built in the beginning by one who feels an attachment for her task. Like the garden truck of the Coast Chinese, who raises his plants with love while those about him fall, the mince pie flourishes only when the heart of the maker is in the making. It must not be an orphan makeshift of cracker crumbs, green tomatoes and kindred new-day fillers. It should be conceived, preferably, in the Fall, in rural regions at hog-killing time. It must be rich in lean meat and white suet and moistened with cider. The cooked mess should be stored in a back shed for a time until its various juices have mingled freely with one another. Finally it must be sculptured into a piece by sympathetic hands.

It must be eaten on a frosty morning. But in no case must it be approached unless the eater's heart is in the project. Preferably it should be consumed after a series of hard chores out of doors, and it should never be met by any but a razor-edged appetite. If these directions are followed mince pie will lie easily in the old frame.

However, the inquirer is correct in questioning the qualifications of a middle-aged man already full of food and of poor digestion. Under no circumstances should he tangle with a robust old-fashioned hot mince-pie, save after an acknowledgment that he does so at his own risk.

CANNED

It is an ill week that is not observed in some manner and for some purpose. In fact, so large has grown the number of things to be observed that the fifty-two weeks in the year no longer go around and the country is experiencing such things as double and even quadruple observances. Some of the more nationally known "weeks" are music week, thrift week, own-your-own-home week, insurance week, clean-up and paint-up week.

In all this numerous company there is one "week" being observed, which the public must observe through necessity and which it is grateful for the privilege of observing. The "week" here mentioned is canned goods week.

The young bride is chided for her canned meals and the jokesmiths employ their wit upon the can opener and home-cooked meals made direct from the can but putting all jokes aside, as it is said in the idiomatic, few inventions have contributed more to mankind than that of preserving food in cans. In a measure the much reviled can keeps all foods in season twelve months of the year.

One phase of the canned goods question often overlooked is the economic. It is not generally known that the commercial canning of fruits, vegetables, meats and fish increases the demand for these food staples many times over, thereby lowering the cost to the consumer. There is also the stabilizing influence on the food market over the whole year. To canned goods must be given credit for relieving much suffering and want among those of small means during the winter months.

Those who have long been acquainted with canned beans, canned soups, canned peaches and canned salmon, must have read with surprise in the advertisements of "canned goods week" that long list of 201 varieties of canned goods. It was a revelation, a discovery.

Fresh garden vegetables and fruit just off the trees are to be preferred at all times, but when these are out of season the cans on the grocer's shelves are a boon to humanity.

Beauty secret: Sweeping reduces.

AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING — BY BRIGGS

What the world needs is peace and plenty of it.

Life is too short to waste time hating everybody.

The barber always takes a man at his face value.

The only successful substitute for brains is silence.

Do your Christmas mailing early so you can get an answer.

Men who don't pay as they go seldom cover much territory.

VISITATION FOR AUTUMN

These mornings when the woods are still.

And cold and golden lies the bush.

A hunting horn rings down the hill.

No passing heron drops a quill.

No partridge whirrs in sudden flush.

These mornings when the woods are still.

The mist still hangs about the mill.

When crisp and clear, with silver rush.

A hunting horn rings down the hill.

With "Over, land and with a will!"

The howlers come in eager rush.

These mornings when the woods are still.

A cry of "Hunt!" Look there! A spool!

See how one rises in the wood!

A hunting horn rings down the hill.

Mildly someone to see the hill!

No, man-of-war, don't have the hill!

These mornings when the woods are still.

A hunting horn rings down the hill.

—Boston Transcript.
